Article I. Greetings

Article II. Salutations

In English, there's a phrase commonly used with children: "what's the magic word?" or "say the magic word" and that magic word is "please." In French, as important it is to say s'il vous plait, there's a word that's even more magical: bonjour. Saying bonjour is more than just a matter of greeting someone; it's the very first word you should say when entering a store, asking for help, or beginning any kind of conversation whatsoever. Even if it's the only French word you know, you should always say bonjour - it can make the difference between a friendly encounter and a frosty one.
